Types of Massage Therapy Offered at Kaiser Permanente

Kaiser Permanente California offers a variety of massage therapy types, each tailored to meet the specific needs and preferences of patients. Here are some of the most common styles available:

1. Swedish Massage

Swedish massage is one of the most popular forms of massage therapy, focusing on relaxation and general well-being. It involves long, flowing strokes and gentle kneading, making it ideal for those new to massage or seeking a relaxing experience.

2. Deep Tissue Massage

Deep tissue massage targets deeper layers of muscle tissue, making it effective for chronic pain and tension. This technique involves slower strokes and more intense pressure, helping to release tightness and restore mobility.

3. Sports Massage

Designed for athletes and active individuals, sports massage focuses on areas of the body that are overused and stressed from repetitive movements. It can enhance performance, reduce the risk of injury, and promote faster recovery.

4. Trigger Point Therapy

Trigger point therapy involves applying pressure to specific muscle knots or areas of tension. This technique can alleviate pain and discomfort caused by muscle tightness and is particularly beneficial for individuals with chronic pain conditions.

5. Prenatal Massage

Specially designed for expectant mothers, prenatal massage helps alleviate common discomforts associated with pregnancy, such as back pain, swelling, and anxiety. Therapists trained in prenatal massage techniques ensure the safety and comfort of both mother and baby.
