Understanding Points System in NJ

New Jersey employs a points system to track traffic violations. Points are added to a driver's record for certain offenses, and accumulating too many points can lead to penalties, including license suspension.

Point Accumulation and Consequences

The following outlines how points are assigned for various violations:

- Speeding 1-14 mph over the limit: 2 points
- Speeding 15-29 mph over the limit: 4 points
- Driving under the influence (DUI): 8 points
- Reckless driving: 5 points
- Failing to stop for a school bus: 5 points

If a driver accumulates 12 or more points within a three-year period, they may face license suspension. However, drivers can attend a state-approved defensive driving course to reduce points on their record.

Steps to Take After Receiving a Ticket

Receiving a traffic ticket can be a stressful experience, but knowing the right steps to take can help mitigate the consequences. Here's what to do:

1. Read the Ticket Thoroughly: Understand the violation, penalties, and due dates for payment or court appearance.
2. Decide Whether to Pay or Contest: Consider if the violation is valid and whether you have grounds to contest it.
3. Gather Evidence: If contesting, collect evidence such as photographs, witness statements, or dashcam footage.
4. Consider Legal Assistance: Hiring an attorney may be beneficial, especially for serious offenses.
5. Attend Court if Necessary: If you contest the ticket, prepare to present your case in court.
