Founding and Early Years

Vision of Oral Roberts

Oral Roberts, a prominent figure in the Pentecostal movement, established the university in response to a divine vision he claimed to have received in 1947. This vision inspired him to create a place of higher learning that would integrate faith and education. He envisioned an institution where students could grow spiritually while also receiving a quality education that would prepare them for their future careers.

Establishment in 1963

In 1963, Roberts officially founded Oral Roberts University. The first classes were held in a former high school building, but the vision for a comprehensive university was taking shape. The university's founding principles included:
