Physical Conditioning

The training emphasizes cardiovascular endurance, strength, and agility. Members are instructed to perform a variety of exercises including running, calisthenics, and obstacle courses. The physical conditioning routines are designed to build stamina and resilience, which the group considers essential for effective activism and confrontation.

Drills and Tactical Exercises

The videos include instruction on formations, movement techniques, and communication strategies for group coordination. Members are trained to march in formation, respond to commands, and execute simulated scenarios that mimic real-life encounters with opposition groups or law enforcement. These drills are intended to cultivate discipline and operational efficiency.

Self-Defense and Combat Training
