Eligibility Criteria for Sanitation Worker Exam 2022

Meeting the eligibility criteria is the first essential step for candidates aiming to appear in the sanitation worker exam 2022. Each recruiting authority defines specific requirements to ensure candidates possess the necessary qualifications and physical fitness for the demanding role of sanitation workers.

Educational Qualifications

Generally, the minimum educational qualification required for the sanitation worker exam 2022 is a high school diploma or equivalent. Some states or municipalities might accept candidates with lower educational credentials such as completion of middle school or an equivalent certification. It is important to verify the exact educational criteria outlined in the official recruitment notification.

Age Limit

The age limits for candidates typically range between 18 and 35 years. Age relaxations may be provided to reserved categories such as Scheduled Castes (SC), Scheduled Tribes (ST), Other Backward Classes (OBC), and persons with disabilities (PWD) as per government regulations. Candidates must ensure they fall within the prescribed age bracket on the cutoff date mentioned in the notification.

Physical and Medical Requirements

Sanitation work involves physical labor, including lifting, bending, and prolonged standing. Hence, candidates must meet certain physical and medical standards. This might include specific height and weight requirements, as well as the absence of any medical conditions that could impede job performance. A medical examination is usually conducted after the written exam to confirm physical fitness.
